Contributions in the field of Education

Deen Dayal College has made significant contributions in the field of education through its Internal Quality assurance, self -evaluation mechanism, student centric learning and promotion of research.

Student-centred teaching methods shift the focus of activity from the teacher to the learners. The College practices student-centred learning, an approach to education focusing on the needs of the students. The college promotes the teaching methods such as active learning, cooperative learning, and inductive teaching and learning (i.e. inquiry-based learning, case-based instruction, problem-based learning, project-based learning, discovery learning, and just-in-time teaching). It promoted:

- Collaborative group learning, both inside and outside the classroom;
- Individual student research and discovery;
- Research and discovery by students and faculty together;

The following techniques are also used:

- Project based learning: Projects are assigned to the students, through which they come to know how to solve a particular problem and study that problem in-depth.

Students are provided knowledge by undertaking projects on different subject and on different topics of the same subject. This develops their analytical skills and provides confidence at the end of the day.

- Computer aided Instruction: Students are given computer aided instructions and encouraged to use latest technology. Students also have a compulsory subject. Basic knowledge of using computer is provided through a compulsory paper. On this they can build up when they start independent teaching jobs.

- Reflective teaching is a process of self-observation and self-evaluation. By collecting information about what goes/went on in our classroom, and by analyzing and evaluating this information, we identify and explore our own practices and underlying beliefs. This leads to changes and improvements in our teaching.
